

POSITION: ARCHITECTURAL HISTORIAN / CULTURAL RESOURCES PLANNER

Page & Turnbull, one of California's first architecture and cultural resources firms to focus its practice on historic preservation and adaptive reuse, is looking for a passionate architectural historian/cultural resources planner. Our mission is: "We imagine change in historic and contemporary environments to cultivate thriving, sustainable, and resilient communities. We are visionary architects, historians, and planners who explore the nuances of place and history to shape a better and more equitable future. We thrive on creativity and collaboration that incorporates the best of the old and the new. We value authenticity and mutual respect in our work and relationships."

THE POSITION AT A GLANCE

We are hiring a mid-level position at any of our offices in California: San Francisco, San Jose, Sacramento, or Los Angeles. We work in a hybrid work environment, so proximity to one of the offices is required. We are looking for an Architectural Historian/Cultural Resources Planner with a graduate degree in architectural history, historic preservation, planning, or related field. Applicants must have approximately 4 to 7 years of directly related professional experience. Experience with the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) and NHPA Section 106 consultation process is required, which involves proposed project review and applying the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties. Experience with Historic Context Statements, Historic Preservation Plans, General Plans and Specific Plans, and other advanced planning deliverables is desired. Experience as a project manager is a plus, but not required.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION IS IMPORTANT

We strive to have a meaningful impact on historic places in California and beyond. With your research ability, outstanding communication skills, and knowledge of National and California Register evaluation criteria and the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties, you will help to produce exceptional deliverables. You will work directly with a talented 11-person Cultural Resources Studio team and often collaborate with the Architecture and Preservation Technology studios. You'll immediately work on an exciting variety of historic projects encompassing a range of size and property types.

THE NUTS & BOLTS

- Perform digital and traditional historic research.
- Visit sites and document existing conditions.
- Review architectural project drawings and recommend design improvements that align with historic preservation best practices.

- Prepare CEQA Historic Resource Evaluations/Assessments, National Register/California Register nominations, Historic Context Statements, Historic Resources Surveys, Project Impact Analyses, Historic American Building Survey (HABS) documentation, Cultural Resources chapters of CEQA Environmental Impact Reports, NHPA Section 106 consultation services, Federal Tax Certification Documentation, Historic Resources Elements of General Plans and Specific Plans, Historic Preservation Plans, Design Guidelines, interpretive programs, and architectural design/entitlements consultation.
- Enhance projects through mapping and clear illustrations, using GIS, Adobe InDesign, and/or Adobe Illustrator.

WHAT PAGE & TURNBULL OFFERS

In addition to a collegial workplace, we offer a competitive salary; health, dental and vision insurance; paid vacation and holidays; professional development opportunities; 401K participation; and other benefits. We value a work life balance. Page & Turnbull is very supportive of participation in professional and community organizations including the California Preservation Foundation, Docomomo, San Francisco Heritage, Los Angeles Conservancy, American Planning Association (APA), the American Institute of Architects (AIA), and others.

If you have a passion for historic places, architecture, and design and want to work with smart, dedicated, and collaborative people who understand that work satisfaction is an important part our life, then please send a letter of interest, resume, and work samples in PDF format to resume@page-turnbull.com (no phone calls please). To make sure your information gets reviewed in a timely fashion, add "P&T Architectural Historian/Cultural Resources Planner Position" in the subject heading.

Salary ranges from $75,600 to $94,500 annually.
